World Games organisers praise Wroc?aw ticket sales with 70 per cent sold

By Max Winters in Wroc?aw for Inside the Games website, July 24, 2017 World Games organisers have expressed their delight here today at the number of tickets sold for the sporting action. During a press briefing this morning, Wroc?aw 2017 spokesperson Kacper Cecota announced that around 70 per cent of tickets had so far been purchased. "We are very happy with the level of ticket sales for now," Cecota said. "According to reports we have sold 140,000 tickets up until today, which is around 70 per cent. "For many finals days we have sold more than 90 per cent while some are already sold out. "Fin swimming was the first to sell out and we have also seen high demand for squash, billiard sports and speedway, for which we have had to extend the tribune at the Olympic Stadium. "The Opening Ceremony was also sold out with 26,000 people in attendance for that so it's so far, so good. "We are selling at a pace of 5,000 to 7,000 tickets per day and we are very happy."
