When your mind wanders to thoughts of spectacular scenery and bathing in a relatively warm pool, you naturally think of summer – or at least late spring. However, if your mind is capable on encapsulating pool bathing in the depths of winter – and your budget can stand the strain, the winter offers some of the most spectacular opportunities of the year

Doloresz Katanich offers some winter bath connections for Living It. Once you've made your share of the cookies during the holiday and tried your own version of the Danish "còsagach" (Gaelic word for being snug and cozy), and you still think something is missing, well, we have a magnificent idea: enjoy the water either from the top of the Alps or from the Mediterranean, whether it is a spa with sauna and massage or just a swim in the pool when it's snowing outside. Living it made a collection of the best baths around Europe.
